Congress.

IN SENATE, Dec. 22, 1823.

MR. LOWRIE presented the memorial of sundry Insurance Companies and Merchants of the City of Philadelphia, praying compensation for property captured by the French, from 1793 to 1815.—Referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. Smith offered the following resolution, which was read, and laid over for consideration;

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to lay before the Senate a statement shewing the exact amount which will be due and payable to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, on the 1st day of January, 1825.

On motion of Mr. Benton, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of Executive business; and immediately thereafter. Adjourned.

Tuesday, Dec. 23.

The resolution, offered by Mr. Smith directing the Secretary of the Treasury to lay before the Senate a statement, showing the exact amount which will be due, and payable to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, on the 1st day of January, 1825, was taken up for consideration.

Mr. Smith observed; his object in submitting the resolution was, to know what sum the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund would have a right to demand on the 1st January, 1825. He mentioned that day because, then, a part of the public debt would become payable; and as the President had stated, there would be nine millions in the Treasury on that day, it was important to ascertain how much of this amount would have to be applied to that purpose.

The Senate then resumed the consideration of executive business, after which, it adjourned.

Wednesday Dec. 24.

Mr. Smith introduced a bill to revive and continue in force sundry acts relative to discriminating duties on imports and tonnage;

Mr. Van Buren gave notice, that on Monday next, he should ask leave to introduce a joint resolution, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the U. S. in relation to the election of President and Vice-President.

After transacting some private business, the Senate adjourned to Friday.

Friday, Dec. 26.

Mr. Smith, from the Committee of Finance, to whom was referred the bill to revive and continue in force certain acts relative to the collection of duties on imports and tonnage, reported a new bill on the subject.

A resolution was offered, directing the committee on Public Lands to inquire into the expediency of selling the lead mines and salines of the U. S.

Mr. Mills gave notice that on Monday next, he should ask leave to introduce a joint resolution, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, in relation to the election of President and Vice-President.

The Senate then adjourned to Monday next.

House of Representatives.

Monday, Dec. 22.

Amendment of the Constitution.

Mr. M'Duffie, from the select committee on his resolution to amend the Constitution, reported two joint resolutions, which were read twice, and ordered to be printed.

The first resolution proposes an amendment to the Constitution, on the subject of the election of President and Vice-President.—The second resolution proposes an amendment as regards the election of Representatives to Congress.

Mr. Breck offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for the amount of exports and imports to and from Greece, Asia Minor and Egypt, from 1820 to 1822.—The resolution was laid on the table.

The House then went into the consideration of private petitions, on some of which was considerable debate—after which the House adjourned.

Tuesday, Dec 23.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Breck, calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to the amount of our trade with Greece, &c. was taken up, and after considerable discussion, was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Mallary submitted the following resolution;—

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to lay before this House such information as he may possess, (and which may be disclosed without injury to the public good) relative to the determination of any sovereign or sovereigns to assist Spain in the subjugation of her late colonies on the American continent, and whether any government of Europe is disposed or determined to oppose any aid or assistance which such sovereign or combination of sovereigns may afford to Spain for the subjugation of her late colonies above mentioned.

After transacting some private business, the House adjourned.

Wednesday, Dec. 24.

A Resolution yesterday offered by Mr. Mallary, calling on the President for any information he may possess, (and which may be disclosed without injury to the public good,) relative to the determination of any sovereign or Sovereigns to aid Spain in regaining her American Colonies; and the disposition of any other European Government to oppose it, was adopted.

In advocating this resolution, Mr. Mallary said, the President's Message prepared the House for subjects of great importance; nay, the President went so far as to say that "there never was a period, since the revolution, when, regarding the condition of the civilized world and its bearing on us, there was greater necessity for devotion in the public servants, to their respective duties, or for virtue patriotism, and union in our constituents." When we come to examine the body of the Message, said he, we discover nothing to which this language can apply, except the situation of the great European Powers, and the bearing which that situation may have upon this country. Those powers had united their efforts against the cause of freedom on the Continent of Europe, and had successfully put down every struggle to maintain it. It was possible they might extend their plans across the Atlantic, and that their attention would next be directed to the Republics of South America. Such appeared to be the impression of the President; and if such were actually the state of things, the U. States must probably become deeply involved in the event of such a contest. It was impossible we could be indifferent to the attempts of despotic power to crush the cause of freedom in our own hemisphere. That some plans of this sort were in agitation, was plain, from the tenor of the Message. The President would not have warned the two houses of Congress that all their energies would be called for, if there were not something of serious moment in the political horizon, not seen by all. And as, in this public document the Chief Magistrate had thought proper to go so far, it was certainly proper in the house to meet his communication by requesting such information, on the subject to which he had alluded, as he might deem it consistent with the public welfare to disclose. It was proper and desirable that we should know as much as possible of the dangers to which we are exposed.

Naval Pensions.

The bill to continue for five years longer the half pay pensions to the widows and children of officers, seamen and marines, of the Navy who have died in service, passed through committee of the whole and the question being about to be stated on ordering it to a third reading—Mr. Cobb and Mr. Livermore, made some objections to its passage, on the ground that the fund was insufficient to meet the claims, which would continue to increase.

Mr. Cambreleng, in replying to the gentleman from N. H took occasion to notice the origin and character of this fund. In 1800, Congress, varying from the British rule of granting the whole of the prize money to the captors, appropriated one half of the proceeds of all prizes of inferior force to create a Navy Pension Fund for the support of invalids. During our late war, after the fall of some of our most gallant officers and seamen, a question arose, whether, in strict justice, their widows and orphans should not be provided for out of that fund which a share of their prize money had contributed to create. Congress by the acts of 1813 and '14, granted pensions to them, and the pension roll now embraces invalids, widows, and orphans.

Mr. Cobb replied, that the explanation given by the gentlemen from New-York was entirely satisfactory.—He was happy to understand the nature and the flourishing situation of the fund, and he hoped that Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Perry, and others, whose names had been mentioned, would be provided for.

The bill was then ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

The House adjourned to Friday.

Friday, Dec 26.

Mr. Sloane, from the Committee on Elections, made a report on the petition of sundry inhabitants of Norfolk County, in Massachusetts, remonstrating against the election of John Bailey, a member of this house, on account of his having not been, at the time of his election, an inhabitant of the District or State in which he was elected—but a resident of the City of Washington; and asking for power to send for testimony; which leave was granted, nem. con.

On motion of Mr. Wayne, it was.

Resolved, That the Committee on Revolutionary Pensions be instructed to inquire into the expediency of fixing, by law, the net amount of annual income, which shall disqualify any applicant from being placed on the pension list, under the acts of March 18th, 1818, and May 1st, 1820.

The engrossed bill, extending the half pay pension of officers, widows, &c. was read a third time, passed, and sent to the Senate for concurrence.

The engrossed bill for the relief of Jacob Schaeffer, was then read a third time

Mr. Taylor, moved that it be recommitted to the Committee on Private Land Claims, with instructions "to inquire into the expediency of so amending the same; as to provide for the allowance of bounty land to the non-commissioned officers and privates of the United States' Army, and to their representatives, who enlisted for five years or during the war, and were honorably discharged previous to the expiration of the respective terms of their enlistment."

The case of this claimant may be stated as follows; He enlisted as a private in the Army of the United States for five years; but, after serving some eighteen months, he was discharged, the war being over, and he being anxious to rejoin his family, on condition of relinquishing his claim to bounty land. He now asks for the passage of a law to give him his bounty land.

On the principles of this bill a debate arose, in which considerable eloquence and ingenuity were displayed, which occupied the whole of the day

The motion of Mr. Taylor was negatived by a large majority.

After further debate, the question was at length taken on the passage of the bill, the yeas and nays having been required by Mr. Taylor, of N. York, and decided as follows;—Yeas, 79, Nays, 85.

And then the House adjourned to Monday.

NEW-YORK.

NEW-YORK, DEC 31.

FROM HAVANA.

The brig Packet, at this port, left Havana on the 13th inst. Capt. Doughty informs that a French frigate arrived off the port on the 9th, with instructions for re-establishing the Royal Government. On the 10th, she entered the port, firing salutes, which was answered by the shipping and forts. On the same day, the King was proclaimed in the Cathedral, in presence of the Governor and all the principal officers of Havana, who were escorted by a part of the Catalonia, Tarragona, and Malaga regiments of foot.—Salutes were repeated from all the Forts, the town illuminated, &c. The old regulations went into immediate operation. No smiles were to be seen from the friends of the Constitution. A double guard was placed in the city; and all the taverns and grog shops were ordered to be closed at 8 o'clock.

The frigate which brought the above intelligence, was the Sirvente. The frigate which was called to have sailed from Cadiz with a new Governor for Cuba, was called the Tennate.

Capt. D. has favored us with Havana papers to the 13th inst.

HAVANA, Dec. 10th, 1823

Don Francisco Dionisio Vives, &c. &c. makes known to all the inhabitants of the Island of Cuba, that he has this moment received the Royal Decrees of his Majesty, of the 3d and 20th of October, which follow:

"Restored to the plenitude of my sovereign rights, I annul every thing that has been done in virtue of the system called Constitutional, and order the Captain General and Commandant of the Island of Cuba, to obey, guarantee and fulfil by all the military and naval forces under his command, this my Royal determination. This I expect from his fidelity, and that it be done in conformity with my Royal decree of the 3d inst.

"In the Palace of Seville, Oct. 20, 1823.

FERDINAND.

Countersigned by Victor Saez

The decree of Oct. 3d, tells us, "The King is restored by Divine Providence to the Sovereign rights of his ancestors, &c. and released from the bitter captivity he has suffered; that the first care of his paternal heart has been to destroy the odious system introduced by a few base and insubordinate persons of the army unworthy of the confidence that had been reposed in them; such base instructions deserve only to be supported by the malevolent individuals who endeavored to defend them. The weak efforts and atrocious crimes with which they attempted scandalously to imprison my Royal person and family, were not, thanks to Divine Providence, sufficient against the generous aid of my august cousin the King of France, the other Sovereigns of Europe, and the unanimous, firm and spontaneous voice of my beloved subjects, who raised en masse to restore the ancient and wholesome laws which characterized in my ancestors for many centuries, the Spanish name, power and greatness. In re-establishing them in my dominions, my Royal heart will not rest in quietude, until certain troubles in them are allayed and all in the immense Colonies given by Providence to my glorious arms are made to partake in their benefits.

"A portion of these vast and rich possessions, still a prey to the horrors of a civil and disastrous war through the tyranny of the powerful expedition destined to pacify them, will be restored to peace and tranquility, it is hoped, and returned to the bosom of a just and paternal government anxious for its interest. Whilst I am considering on the energetic measures required for this object, it is resolved that my Royal and legitimate authority be immediately re established in all the Ultra Marine Dominions on the same form and condition and with the same prerogatives as previous to the fatal 9th of March 1820, when I was by violence, deprived of my liberty with my Royal family."

Gov Vives proceed.—"the King then, is re-established in his sovereign rights and in the plenitude inherited from his august ancestors. The genius of the revolution and of discord sowing extravagant and impracticable principles, had succeeded in overturning the established order of so many ages of glory for the nation; the ambition of a few demagogues (coefes) and the dogmas of the new sects though full of absurd inconsistences, seduced many of the unwary who could not penetrate their sanguinary projects and pernicious designs. The felicity which this Island has always enjoyed, and the predilection which his Majesty has always shewn to your petitions, &c. are considerations, which impose on us the necessity of being faithful to our Sovereign, and of respecting and obeying his beneficent resolution.

[The remainder of the proclamation denounces "liberal principles licentious books, pamphlets, &c." and exhorts the inhabitants to behave like good vassals and merit the love of their master.]

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

The Packet ship Orbit, Capt Tinkham, arrived at New-York on Wednesday from Liverpool, has brought London papers to the 14th of Nov.

The papers contain no intelligence of importance.—The subject which appears to engage the whole attention of the politicians, relate to the views of the Allied Powers against South-America.

The Duke d'Angouleme left Madrid Nov. 4th, for Paris.

FROM WASHINGTON.

A letter from Washington, dated on Saturday last, says,—"A grand military ball is to be given to Gen. Jackson, and Mr. Adams', on the 8th of January.—So many tickets are issued that the house will not hold the guests, and canvass tents are to be added to the rear.'

Presidential Nomination.

On the 12th ult. a resolution passed the House of Representatives of Georgia, by a vote of about two to one, declaring their preference of Mr Crawford for the Presidency, but expressing at the same time a willingness to give up the man of their choice for any other candidate who should be selected as preferable by the republican party generally.

A letter from Washington, to the editors of the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, dated Dec. 24th, says—"We are still barren of news.—There is, at present, quite a calm upon the subject of a Caucus.—The Maryland resolutions have operated as a damper, as have also those of Georgia. The prospect of a Caucus, from all I can gather, seems to grow fainter.'

MINISTER TO FRANCE.

Mr. Brown, Minister to France, has arrived at New-York, and will embark on board the Cygnet, Capt. Creighton, which it is said will proceed immediately to Havre.

Madame Beamarchais, daughter of the late Baron Beaumarchais, is at Washington, for the purpose of making a personal appeal to our government in relation to the claim of her father.

THE REVENUE.

From the statement of the Register of the Treasury, it appears that the whole amount of money received during the year ending Sept. 30th, 1823, for duties on imports and tonnage, amounted to $23,932,114 24—the tonnage duties were only 123,103 67.—Of the sum total, New-York paid 9,958,119 01; Philadelphia paid 3,594,324 43; Boston 4,587,720 10; Baltimore, 1,856,147 69:

A letter from Lisbon dated Nov. 21st, states that vessels continue to arrive from Sardinia, Marseilles, and almost every port in the Mediterranean, as well as the North of Europe, laden with wheat. Eighty sail of vessels with that article, were then lying in port, without any prospect of the port being opened for their cargoes. Petitions to land the cargoes in bond, had been made, but not then granted.

A COMET!

The Connecticut Mirror contains the following notice of the Comet which has lately appeared:—

A comet was observed this morning in the Shoulder of Sagittarius; in a line between A and K of the Constellation, and very near to the latter. The nucleus is well defined, appearing like a star of the fifth magnitude. The tail extends faintly through 6 degrees and points as usual nearly from the sun.—It is visible between 3 and 6 o'clock in the morning.

Spanish Colonies:

A Decree, by the King of Sp[illegible], dated at Xeres October 3d, after [illegible]nouncing the authors of his bitter c[illegible]tivity, and making his acknowledgme[illegible] to his august cousin of France, for [illegible] deliverance, says. "In re-establishing the ancient and wholesome laws [been in force prior to March 9, 1820] in my dominions, my royal heart will not rest in quietude till certain troubles in them are allayed, and all the immense Co[illegible]louies given, by Providence, to my glorious arms, are made to partake of the benefits of those laws."

CONGRESS.

In a short debate on a resolution offered by Mr. Breck, of Pennsylvania, calling for information as to the exist[illegible] of our trade with Turkey, Mr. Webst[illegible] remarked, that he disclaimed any con[illegible]templation of hostilities with the Port[illegible] In the resolution he had offered on th[illegible] subject of a mission to Greece, and [illegible] unwilling that it should be so unde[illegible]stood by any one, or that such an inst[illegible]tion should go abroad.

COMMERCIAL.

New-Orleans papers of the 12th ult[illegible] mo. contain accounts of numerous [illegible]vals at that port. The Mississippi w[illegible] on the rise, and the produce of the i[illegible]terior had begun to descend in gre[illegible] abundance. Freights, however, [illegible]ued dull, and considerable uneasin[illegible] prevailed in consequence of some ve[illegible] favourable reports respecting the [illegible]kets, recently received from Liverpool and New-York.

John Russell, Esq. who has for [illegible] years served the public in the c[illegible] of an Editor of a Newspaper, has [illegible]drawn from the editorship of the [illegible] Gazette. That paper is hereafte[illegible] published by Mr. Gardner, t[illegible] partner of Mr. Russel, and to be [illegible]d by Samuel L. Knapp, Esq a ge[illegible]ntl[illegible] already advantageously known [illegible] the public.

Piracy.—The brig William [illegible], [illegible]eister, of Baltimore, arrived a[illegible] York from St. Domingo, was [illegible] sight of Porto Rico, by a pirati[illegible], under Spanish colors, and carri[illegible] island of La Mona. After an [illegible]cy landed all the passenger[illegible], women and children, with the [illegible], searching them for money as the [illegible]d. After this they commence[illegible] depredations on the vessel, b[illegible] open trunks, and plundering th[illegible] c and beat the crew.—After [illegible]es had possession of the ve[illegible] days, they released her, detaini[illegible] Mr. F. Brenan on shore. The ve[illegible] a complete wreck. The [illegible] there were only part of an i[illegible]g who had established the[illegible] on the above island, and we[illegible] nd in provisions, arms and a[illegible]

The crew of a privateer brig [illegible]pio are stated in a letter from St. [illegible]omas of the 18th ult. to have [illegible] Porto Rico, and after doubl[illegible] the [illegible]pliment of men, to have com[illegible] cy in the Mona Passage, by [illegible] two or three Havana vessels.

The privateer brig Vencedor [illegible]d at La Guira with a prize [illegible] he. She captured also off [illegible] a Spanish merchant ship of [illegible] 45 men, which was momenta[illegible] ed.

Blessing of Slavery.—A lette[illegible] om [illegible]hmond, Dec. 24th, to the e[illegible] of Baltimore American, states [illegible] a [illegible]number of negroes had bee[illegible] our. [illegible]to that city for some days [illegible] and [illegible] information given as induce[illegible] be [illegible] that they "contemplated [illegible] general massacre of the wh[illegible]"— [illegible] military were all ordered [illegible], to [illegible]ezvous, some immediately [illegible] the [illegible]ots of arms in the city—o[illegible] to [illegible] themselves in readiness at [illegible]mo[illegible]t's warning, to repair to the [illegible]ar[illegible]s of the public guard on the [illegible]ring [illegible]e alarm guns, to perform wh[illegible]ever [illegible], when necessary, a detach[illegible] of [illegible]. Rutherford's artillery co[illegible]any [illegible]upy the capitol, or a convenie[illegible] pot, [illegible]cent.

The writer himself appr[illegible] no [illegible]chief; and states that it is cu[illegible] [illegible]r large numbers of negroes [illegible] in [illegible]mond during the holidays.

The House of Delegates of Ma[illegible]and, [illegible] adopted the resolutions of the [illegible]of that state, 51 votes to 23, d[illegible]n[illegible] a Caucus nomination of a candidate [illegible] the Presidency.

The Senate have consented [illegible] the [illegible]fication of the Treaty with the [illegible]ori[illegible] Indians, concluded at Camp [illegible]oul[illegible].

Forty Poetical addresses have been [illegible]sented to the Managers of the New-[illegible]leans Theatre, for the Premium [illegible]ffered. They are mostly from the [illegible]rthern States.—Thirty-one Addres[illegible] have been presented for the Prize [illegible]ered by the Managers of the Boston [illegible]eatre.

Office Hunting.—It is said that there [illegible] upwards of 300 applicants for the [illegible]ce of Flour Inspector for the city of [illegible]hiladelphia.

Items of News.

The ninth Presidential term will expire on the third of March, 1828—so there is yet a good space of time for the praise and abuse of the different candidates, by those entitled for the purpose.

The Circuit Court for the County of Washington, District of Columbia, has ordered, on the recommendation of the Grand Jury, that the bounds of the prison be henceforth extended to the whole county.

Great Freshet.

On Thursday and Friday last, the water in Connecticut River rose about 18 feet. Vast quantities of ice, with drift wood and rubbish has been floated down. Much damage must have happened on the streams which flow into the Connecticut, though we have heard of but one instance, viz. a serious injury that happened to a Manufactory at Manchester on the Hockanum river. The great rise of water is owing, in part, to the heavy rains—but principally to the stopping of the ice, four miles below this city.—Hart. Mer.

Damage by the late Freshet.

In Wareham, the Dam at the Stone Factory belonging to Messrs. Tobey & Fearing, and another belonging to the same gentlemen on which their carding machine and grist-mill stand, were almost entirely carried away by the rising of the water. The Dam at the rolling and slitting mill of Mr. B. Murdock, in Rochester was considerably broken.—The Dams at the mills of Mr. Stevens and Mr. Rider, in Rochester were also considerably damaged. Several small bridges were carried away, and most of the dams upon all the streams in this vicinity of any magnitude, considerably injured.

POETRY.

FROM THE LONDON MAGAZINE.

ELEGANT STANZAS,

Written by an Officer, long resident in India, on his return to England.

I CAME, but they had passed away,
The fair in form, the pure in mind,
And like a stricken deer I stray,
Where all are strange and none are kind;
Kind to the worn, the wearied soul,
That pants, that struggles for repose;
O that my steps had reached the goal
Where earthly sighs and sorrows close.

Years have passed o'er me like a dream,
That leaves no trace on memory's page;
I look around me and I seem
Some relic of a former age.
Alone as in a stranger clime,
Where stranger voices mock my ear;
I mark the lagging course of time,
Without a wish,—a hope,—a fear!

Yet I had hopes,—and they have fled;
And I had fears were all too true;
My wishes too!—but they are dead,
And what have I with life to do?
'Tis but to wear a weary load,
I may not, dare not, cast away;
To sigh for one small still abode,
Where I may sleep as sweet as they;

As they, the loveliest of their race,
Whose grassy tombs my sorrows steep;
Whose worth my soul delights to trace,
Whose very loss 'tis sweet to weep;
To weep beneath the silent moon;
With none to chide, to hear, to see;
Life can bestow no dearer boon
On one whom death disdains to free.

I leave the world that knows me not,
To hold communion with the dead;
And fancy consecrates the spot
Where fancy's softest dreams are shed.
I see each shade, all silvery white,
I hear each spirit's melting sigh;
I turn to clasp those forms of light,
And the pale morning chills my eye.

But soon the last dim morn shall rise,
The lamp of life burns feebly now,—
When stranger hands shall close my eyes,
And smooth my cold and dewy brow.
Unknown I liv'd,—so let me die;
Nor stone, nor monumental cross,
Tell where his nameless ashes lie,
Who sigh'd for gold, and found it dross.

MISCELLANY.

"I'LL LEAVE MY CARD."

The present may, with much propriety, be styled the age of heartlessness. Empty ceremony and heartless formality have usurped the place of friendly attentions and social intercourse. Modern politeness is exactly opposed to sincerity. There seems to be a tacit understanding between man and man, woman and woman, to deceive and be deceived; and he who plays off these counterfeit tricks the most adroitly, is the most polished and polite.

Walking the other day with a friend, or with one who makes friendly pretensions—"If you will excuse me a moment," said he, "I will call on Mr. Clericus; he is out of town, I believe; I shall overtake you with a few steps" So saying he took from his pocket a card-case—knocked at the door—made the accustomed inquiry, and handed his card to the servant.—"Cancelled at a lucky moment," said he, when he had overtaken me—I always observe great punctuality in returning the civilities of my friends—"But why," I inquired, "did you call on Mr. C. when you knew he was not at home." "Oh!" exclaimed he, "It answers every purpose of a visit, and is far less trouble; he is vastly tedious; but I was in debt to him on the score of civilities"—This paper currency, I find, is in general circulation; the sterling coin of real friendship has become scarce; now and then we meet with a few antiquated pieces, but they are pretty much out of date.—"Mama," said the Misses Stylishes, "we shall go out this morning, and make calls; the day is fine, and ladies will generally be out; the Misses Oldates are on a journey to the White Hills, Miss Mantrim returns soon from Newburyport, and Miss Primarket is staying in Boston" "You can leave my cards," said the mother, with matronly honesty, "at Mr Homebread's and Mrs Starchcap's if they happen not to be at home, the servant will not notice the mistake."

Now I am strongly opposed to all this from moral consideration. The young are instructed in dissimulation and insincerity; servants are taught to reconnoitre at the porch window and prevaricate. The human character is sufficiently bad, it much needs amendment Let the circle of one's friends be small if he chooses; but let it be hearty and genuine with those who profess to be united in the silken bonds of friendship. All this cold ceremony is downright mockery of all that is open, fair and honourable—it is disgraceful to the human character—mere stuff—empty fluff—lighter than the paper that is made the vehicle of their deceit, without its purity.

The widow Tripit flitted by my window—a sprightly knock summoned the servant to the door—"I am not at home this morning, Susan." I am honest and consistent, you see. I will not spare my wife, although I expect a certain lecture if she detects my scribbling—The servant entered with a card.—"I thought, my dear, you were not on the most intimate terms with the widow T. the disclosure of Maria Blad?" "We are not, my dear, (said she) but we lieve our cards," handing me the one just received. "By my ledger," said I, "it blushed." "You are satirical, my dear, it is rose paper," "Very appropriate paper," said I, "it ought to be in more general use [taking up Doctor Chargewell's bill, which I had just paid] with professional men, as well as professional women."

This card leaving custom conferred to its legitimate use, to obviate the carelessness, or forgetfulness of servants, is certainly very proper and convenient; but when made the instrument of idle ceremony and deceitful profession it is certainly reprehensible, and may be classed with the follies and crimes of the age.

Hypocrisy.—A hypocrite is under perpetual constraint; and what a torment must it be for a man always to appear different from what he really is.

Falsehood—If falsehood, like truth, had but one face only, we should be upon better terms; for we should then take the contrary to what the liar says for certain truth.

Ætna Insurance Company

Incorporated for the purpose of Insuring against LOSS or DAMAGE by FIRE, with a Capital of $150,000 and the liberty of increasing the sum to the sum of 500,000.

THE Company having recently increased their Capital 50,000 it is now 200,000 Dollars, with a further sum or surplus fund of 20,000 dollars, appropriated exclusively for the purpose of payment of losses The whole of the funds of the Company are in the most secure and best possible situation, and may, within a few days notice, be converted into ready cash The proposals for Insurance of this Company, are believed to be as favorable as the nature of the business will admit It is also thought worthy of consideration; that the business of the Company is confined principally to risks in the country, and therefore necessarily so situated and detached, that the capital is not exposed to a great loss by a sweeping fire

Hartford, (Con.) Sept 2

☞ Application for Insurance may be made in Providence, to STEPHEN TILLINGHAST, who is authorized to issue Policies without the delay attendant on a reference to the Company in Hartford.

HAIR RESTORATIVE,

And Preservative Vegetable Cerate.

THE important discovery of a vegetable substance, capable of restoring and preserving the hair, was accidentally made by an individual, who has neither the capacity nor the disposition to practice deception or fraud—the fullest reliance may be placed on the efficacy and power of the Vegetable Cerate, not only in restoring and preventing the falling off the hair, but in producing the greatest lustre and liveliness of it imaginable; and the public may rest assured that its effects will be early manifested in the course of a short time by the renewal and vigorous growth of the hair, and by effectually preventing its comming out or falling

The Vegetable Cerate tends to stimulate and excite the energies of the capillary vessels, which constitute those organs that secrete the matter forming the hair; these, like many other organs of the animal body, which have been in a state of dormancy or inaction, may be restored to their health, action and perform all those functions assigned them by nature

The proprietor being aware of the numerous specifics palmed on the public and desirous that the present article should not suffer, rests its merits on the effect it has produced on hundreds of persons, both male and female, and find to be the only thing in restoring and preventing the hair from coming off the heads of those who have used it and all that is asked, as it relates to the verity of its effect, is a fair trial

Elderly people, with bald heads, must be assured that by applying a few times of the above Cerate, their hair will be restored with all its youthful beauty and life

To prevent imposition, the sale of the Valuable Cerate will be confined to DR JAMES H HART for the city of New-York only corner of Broadway and Chamber-st three doors from Washington Hall, where it will be sold at $1

A liberal deduction will be made to country dealers.

The proprietor of the above valuable discovery intends appointing Agents through the United States for the sale of it, and also in Europe

DIRECTIONS

The Vegetable Cerate being perfectly innocent, may be plentifully applied night and morning, and rubbed hard into the pores of the head with the fingers without apprehension of danger In addition to its other value, it beautifies the hair and whiskers

If Gentlemen that are bald, after using it for some weeks, will find a substitute of hair growing on the place that was bald; they will continue it for about ten days after its appearance, then they can shave their hair close off when it is affected after that it will receive its natural and vigorous growth

As those who have the misfortune of losing their hair by sickness, the Cerate will restore to them in a very little time a full and beautiful head of hair, as it is the only thing that has ever been discovered in this country, or perhaps in any other. There are certificates left with Dr James H. Hart, corner of Broadway and Chamber street, who will satisfy any person that wishes to call and see them Dr Hart is appointed sole agent for the city of New-York

☞ A few Boxes of this valuable Article, is just received from New-York, and for Sale at the Office of the Newport Mercury.
